It turns out I inadvertantly left off two categories from my list:

    String functions (lstrcat, IsCharUpper, etc.)   11
    File i/o functions (_lclose, etc.)   6

This brings the total to 59.

Please note that when I use the term "new APIs," I am also referring to previously "hidden" functions which will now be documented.   They are new insofar as they will be added to the documentation although they already exist.

I count them up and get 42 not 60
