Protest against ' Platinum Sponsor' :- The notorious Novell

“If the Microsoft corporation, whether it wishes to be part of this ecology in a genuine and sincere sense or not, if it succeeds in getting one distribution to pay royalties for the distribution of free software, other distributions will do so. They will have to. That will then succeed in marching the commercial sector away from the non-commercial sector, and Microsoft then will be able to use its patents to sue to block the development of software in the non-commercial sector without the fear of suing its own customers, which is the force that now constrains them from misbehavior with their patent portfolio.”

-Eben Moglen, Software Freedom Law Center

“Our partnership with Microsoft continues to expand.”

-Ron Hovsepian, Novell CEO
